

HOTELS

Ventilation and air conditioning technology in hotels. More comfort for guests.

Comfort and wellbeing.

Hotel guests have high expectations and very individual demands when it comes to the room climate. Some like it cool and fresh; others prefer it warm and cosy. All of them, however, want a quiet room. Every hotel has an array of many different rooms and areas, each with different and often complex requirements for ventilation and air conditioning. From the lobby to restaurants, kitchen and bar, and from conference and meeting rooms to the spa. The demands on the air in a hotel could hardly be more diverse.

The perfect air condition for hotels: invisible – inaudible – unnoticeable.

At TROX, we are committed to providing flexible and adaptable systems for hotels. Comfort, wellbeing and safety of people are clearly our main focus. This does not mean, however, that we compromise on sustainability and protection of the environment. With all these factors in mind, we offer not only classical standard systems for hotel rooms but also bespoke and innovative applications such as chilled beam systems that provide quiet and efficient service without being noticed by hotel guests.

A GUEST IN THE BEST HOTELS

TROX technology can be found all over the world, in hotels of all categories including 5-star plus luxury resorts. You'll discover TROX products in an Austrian mountain lodge at 1,800 m altitude as well as in the famous Emirates Palace in Abu Dhabi.

This broad spectrum is a result of our cooperation with architects and engineers. It enables us to provide high-quality standard systems as well as individual, customised systems that stand out because of their aesthetic design, intelligent function, and efficiency.
